PRESS RELEASE

Singapore

Date: July 14, 2025

Roswell Brinkman & Partners unites employee volunteers to fight hunger and promote healthy lifestyles across ASEAN region

Singapore based Roswell Brinkman & Partners promoting its legacy of community service kicks off "To Make an Impact" 2025, its first company-wide local volunteer event since becoming a newly independent local company last year in Malaysia.

This month, Roswell Brinkman Singapore employees will roll up their sleeves to work on 20 to 30 volunteer projects that support the company's community involvement priorities: fighting hunger and promoting healthy lifestyles. Volunteer activities will include planting commons and unity gardens, sorting and packing donated items at food banks and leading activities that support nutrition, education and active play for children.

"To Make an Impact" is our chance to be change makers in our hometowns," said Jack Bennett, Vice President, and Director of Diversity & Community Involvement. "We're helping organizations that make our communities better for us all."

The Roswell Brinkman team will volunteer with non-profit organizations in communities across all of the ASEAN. We will expand our volunteer model celebration which will culminate with Roswell Brinkman's Day of Service starting near its hometown headquarters in Singapore.

Roswell Brinkman employees will volunteer throughout our local area as well as near our operations in Malaysia and Thailand.

Roswell Brinkman & Partners Making an Impact Every Day

All year round, Roswell Brinkman employees give their time, talent and resources to community organizations. Employees have completed more than 29,000 hours of service. Roswell Brinkman and its foundation have provided nearly $130,000 in cash and food donations to a number of organizations over the past 8 years in the region. Roswell Brinkman & Partners also provides humanitarian aid to communities facing natural disasters.
